

Dear Readers,

Afghanistan is approaching the start of crucial phase in its partnership with the international community. The upcoming international Geneva Conference on Afghanistan in November will be a momentous occasion. The Government of Afghanistan will present its new national strategy for socio-economic development spanning the next five years. The international community will reaffirm its continued commitment as part of its enduring partnership with Afghanistan. The Geneva Mutual Accountability Framework will provide a refined partnership, based on mutual commitments for a peaceful, stable & prosperous Afghanistan. Strengthening governance will be a key focus for the Government, alongside other imperatives, such as state and peace-building, and regional connectivity. President Ghani emphasized this yesterday in his address to the 4th meeting of Senior Officials. Meanwhile, preparations for Geneva coincide with developments on ongoing efforts to end the conflict and achieve a dignified and lasting peace in Afghanistan. The past two months have seen important progress in the strengthening of regional and international consensus on peace, generated by the two meetings this month, led by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs. We thank our international partners for their renewed support for peace and also appreciate their astounding call for a cessation of Taliban attacks, for the group to engage in direct negotiations and to enforce a comprehensive ceasefire. We're confident that with close collaboration, the new era of partnership will witness profound progress on the common goal which we are collectively adamant on achieving. On behalf of my colleagues and I, we convey our warmest wishes to all fellow compatriots on the onset of Eid-ul-Adha. May you all enjoy the Eid holiday in peace, harmony, joy and compassion.

Regards,

Youssof Ghafoorzai
Ambassador

Fourth Senior Officials Meeting (SOM) in Preparations for Geneva Conference on Afghanistan
